

« Home

MyWorld

Wooden Box,when i was a Lad,School Days.Projects

Posted by Nigel Thu, May 07, 2015 20:35:25

Wooden Box,when i was a Lad,School Days.

School days,i have been having a sort through cupboards lately,organising and decluttering.

I Came across my wooden box,the idea behind it,was a cigar box,don't know why,so don't ask me,i was young,keen full of enthusiasm and enjoyed wood work.

I wanted to make all kinds of projects.

I made all kinds of projects such as:

1 A kitchen Cupboard.

2 A Cross,beautifully made with halving joints,and sanded down so smooth,and clear varnish.

It could stand on its own,just like the ones in church.

3 A bottle opener,this was made from Mahogany,and the idea was basic,to open bottles,i inserted two screws,which did the job.

4 And 2 Wooden Boxes,i made one for jewley and the one you see below,still can't think why,a Cigar Box.

I lost the jewley box when i moved house,a shame,it was a plain light beige colour with felt for lining.

After 33 years it still looks good.

Allow for Age.

Grain Affect,looks good.

Not a bad effort on joints.

Beautifully shows good character.

Slightly worn with use.

For some one who was about 13-14 years old,i think i did an okey job.

I love working with wood,being creative and proud of what you can acheive from a piece of timber.

I have most of the tools needed to do basic carpentry,but i wish i had some of the gear i had at school,yes please,but you have to make the most and the best of what you have.

I will be bringing some more projects soon,so stay tuned.

- Comments\(0\)

CategoriesLog InNon-mobile site